

What are the key messages from these young people for us?

Not enough to provide factual information re: climate change need to answer the so what question for people

Education is key

Education critical to reframing climate change not as a future problem but as a present issue.

Social justice is at the heart of climate change solutions

The narrative has been about the 'future' for so long that it is now the present - we are asked to act now.

We need to educate our young people, they are the wheels of change.

The future starts now - we need to be action now as well as future planning

Meaningful inclusion of young people in decision-making processes is needed

Seize the day act now

we need to return to some old style living of reusing, recycling, repairing, smaller family farms that benefit and utilise the benefits of nature as opposed to big multi nationals who destroy the land in the main.

Politicians and those in authority to recognise that everyone in society has a say in their future and the effects of climate change, including young people

Young people are drivers of Learning for Sustainability and respond well to LfS
